Press Release

Online Fair for Prospective Students

On 31 March 2022, prospective students from all over the world can join us via PC, tablet or smartphone and learn more about the master's programs at the University of Mannheim and campus life in the so-called Quadratesstadt Mannheim ("city of squares").

From 8.30 a.m. to 5.30 p.m., the University of Mannheim presents its master's programs in the fields of business administration, economics, law, humanities and social sciences as well as informatics and mathematics. In live streams and live chats, staff members of the University of Mannheim answer questions on the contents of the programs of study, the application and admissions process and the possibilities for going abroad. In addition, students talk about their studies, semesters abroad, internships and campus life at the University of Mannheim. The participants also have the opportunity to discover the campus online and learn more about living in Mannheim. Students interested in a master's program can save important information and videos tutorials to their personal profile so that they can access this information after the online fair has ended.

Participation is free. Please register for the Online Experience Days here:
