Mannheim, 23 March 2023

International QS Ranking: The University of Mannheim Is Germany's Best University in Economics and Business Administration Again

In the worldwide comparison of the "QS World University Rankings by Subject 2023", the University of Mannheim ranked number 122 in the Social Sciences and Management category. In the areas of Accounting & Finance and Business & Management Studies, it ranks first in Germany once again.

In the current "QS World University Ranking by Subject", the University of Mannheim has been named the fourth best German university in the Social Sciences and Management category.

In this category, the University of Mannheim was evaluated in six different areas. It was particularly successful in the areas of Accounting & Finance and Business & Management Studies, where it ranked first in Germany in each case. In Economics & Econometrics it ranked second. Overall, Mannheim is hence the best-ranked German university in business and economics. Moreover, the university also placed among the top ten best German universities in each of the other areas evaluated (political science, sociology, and media and communication studies, as well as psychology, which is part of the Life Sciences & Medicine category).

The "QS World University Rankings by Subject" are published every year and this year rank more than 1,500 universities worldwide in terms of their research reputation, the number and quality of their publications, and the reputation of graduates with employers.
