celebrating love for digital products – made for students by students

unicon 2020

At unicon, we want to create a platform for around 120 students from top tier universities, with backgrounds in software development, design and product management, to connect with industry leading companies and personalities - as well as with each other.

The conference will include talks by interesting speakers out of the industry, workshops and insight sessions with well-known partner companies, as well as a group challenge and casual networking possibilites for everyone.

By facilitating this exchange, we want to support the next tech generation to foster positive impact on the digital community.
